News from BBMS...

Dear BBMS Families:

We want to thank you for sending "kindness emails" to teachers last week. This was part of our school's efforts to recognize how important all individuals are at BBMS and how the power of being kind can help everyone succeed. Your notes to staff were fantastic! We hope the notes your students received on their lockers and throughout the week helped to brighten their day. We also hope that they shared with you some details from the anti-bullying video and discussion that we had on Friday. We want to live out the following message at BBMS everyday: "how we treat each other is most important".

As we prepare for the upcoming Spring Break, please talk to your students about the importance of the end of the year. This is the time we will ask students to do their very best work. We want to see whether students are building the skills, knowledge, and work ethic needed for the next grade level. Of the three, work ethic can sometimes be what holds students back. Your help in talking this through with students will help us teach students this valuable lesson.

Thank you for your continued support of BBMS throughout the year: "Star Families", Kindness Notes, and the countless ways you help through the PTA, Music Boosters, and beyond... we are lucky to be in such a great community!

Have a great week Sharks!

Drew Cockley
Principal
