Video Message from BBMS

April 17

Hello BBMS Families,

We hope you are doing well, staying safe, and finding ways to stay connected during the current state we are living in. I thought today we would try a video message for the week to give you a break from all of the standard emails we've been sending to you.

One item before you view the video: technology. We are getting reports that some families have received a computer from HCPSS, while others have not. We do know the county is working very hard to get them all delivered by today. IF you have not received one by Monday, please send me an email:

andrew_cockley@hcpss.org.

We will continue to monitor this and find a way to get every student access so they can participate in classes starting Monday, April 20.

Until then, enjoy (ok, please go easy on the critiques - I promise they will get better)... here is the link to my video message: <https://youtu.be/cbnjiz0eGz0>

Have a great weekend BBMS ~ hope to see you in virtual classes next week!
